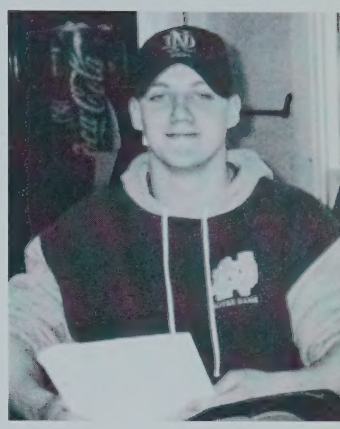
DEDICATION

"Since Time, and his predestinated end,
Abridg'd the circuit of his hopeful days,
Whiles both his Youth and Virtue did intend
The good endeavors of deserving praise,
What memorable monument can last
Whereon to build his never-blemish'd name
But his own worth, wherein his life was grac'd,
Sith as (that) ever he maintained the same?"



"Renaissance Man" — this expression has become a cliché, yet it is perhaps the best way to describe Kenneth Paul Hveem, to whose memory this yearbook is dedicated. Kenny was truly a Renaissance Man, for he was equally adept at the physical, intellectual, and social arts.

It was as an athlete — as a player on the College's baseball team — that Kenny originally came to Dominican, and it was on the baseball team that he made many of his closest friendships. Sports and exercise were important to him. Despite working a full-time job and keeping a heavy class schedule, he somehow always found the time to work out, root for his much-loved Yankees, and play backyard wiffleball with his buddies. This energy carried over to the hallways (I still see him in my mind, running through Casey, his ever-present bottle of lemon water in hand) and into the classroom.

It was as a student that I knew Kenny best. While he was a student in five of my courses, my best experience with him — my best experience with any student — occurred only recently. Over the past year, I had the distinct honor and pleasure of working with him on his Honors project, which was to be a video of Hamlet, written, directed, and produced by Kenny, and starring Kenny as Hamlet. When I asked him if he had ever acted before, he answered nonchalantly, "No. But I want to start at the top!" To prepare this project, we met once a week to discuss scholarly critiques of the play and his plans for shooting his video. This was a great privilege for me, for I was able to have discussions with him that were on the graduate level, and others who overheard these conversations were amazed by his remarkable intelligence.

It is, of course, as a friend that Kennymade the greatest impact on all of us. This is testified to by the sheer number of people who have been so deeply affected by his death. Whether it was on the baseball team, in the dorms, or in the classroom, we all felt his friendship. He enjoyed joking around with his friends, but he also relished having serious conversations with them and was always there when they needed him. In fact, for many he even became a mentor and role model by helping them study or assisting them with their papers. Working so closely with Kenny on his Hamlet project, I lost my own objectivity as his teacher, and I, too, came to think of him as a close friend.

For myself, and for many others in the Dominican community, the names Kenneth Hveem and William Shakespeare will be forever linked. The lines at the top of this page open "A Funeral Elegy," a poem recently attributed to Shakespeare. This peom laments the sudden passing of young man who was a scholar and dear friend. As with Shakespeare's subject, our memories of Kenny's "own worth" are perhaps the greatest monument we can have of him.

— Dr. Thomas S. Nowak

Kenny was also a member of Aubade and many of the pictures in this book were taken by him.

Why are more and more parents enrolling their children in MARTIAL ARTS classes?

At Thomas Clifford's Karate Academy our carefully structured programs are designed to bring out the best in each and every child we teach. Our programs will:

- Increase your child's attention span.
- Develop self discipline which will give your child the power to resist the many bad influences that face today's youth.
- Build self confidence which pays off for the rest of your child's life.
- Develop your child's mind and body at the same time.

At Thomas Clifford's Karate Academy our programs are built around the 8 principles of Black Belt Excellence:

- Honesty
- Integrity
- Humility
- Courtesy
- Harmony
- Self-Discipline
- Perseverance
- Indomitable Spirit

By integrating these principles into your child's program, we give your child a head start in life
